

Private Music Tuition Form

At Heathdale Christian College we are keen to encourage the God-given gifts and talents of our students, therefore we provide the option of private music tuition within our school curriculum.

Heathdale contracts a number of private music tutors who assist in providing this program. These tutors are not employed by the College, but are given time and space to conduct private lessons during a regular school day.

Whilst the College has a thorough process in place for engaging contractors, the agreement to teach your child is made between you, as parents/guardians, and the relevant private music tutor.

Our private music program runs during the school day, therefore your child will be absent from normal class time for their lesson. Private music tutors endeavour to set lessons at appropriate times, for minimal disruption, with older students being offered rotating lesson times. Please note, there can be limitations in this regard as tutors may only be available on certain days.

Students undertaking private music lessons are expected to be part of our Instrumental Music Program, as applicable. They will be a regular member of a school ensemble and attend all rehearsals and performances, as required.

The cost of a lesson is determined by the tutor, but is generally between $35 to $45 per half hour and $80 to $90 per hour. The accounts for lessons are prepared by the tutor and forwarded directly to the parents/guardians.

If your child requires an instrument, you can purchase one outright, hire one directly through the College or borrow one from a friend. Please contact the College if you wish to purchase or hire an instrument.
